ADAMS COUNTY FIRE RESCUE ANNOUNCES NEW STATION 11 OPENING

Adams County Fire Protection District is proud to announce the opening of Station 11 at 1675 W. 69th Ave. The Station replaces Station 11 at 7980 Elmwood Lane. The new station was built to benefit the Adams County community in multiple ways. “The most exciting thing about the New Station 11 is our citizens and firefighters will have a state of the art fire station that will provide the best coverage this community has ever had the privilege of owning. Our firefighters will also live in the safest environment ever seen with the new safety minded design,” said Adams County Fire Rescue Chief Pat Laurienti commented.

Although the station is one of the most progressive in the country, Adams County Fire Protection District did not ask taxpayers for any additional money, or raise taxes. “All of this has been made possible from the lasting effects of merging two great departments into an ISO 1 Nationally Accredited Fire District. In the merge, enough money was saved to fund this twelve million dollar station with general funds without asking our tax payers for additional tax dollars,” Chief Laurienti added.

The 31,000 square foot superstation can now respond to calls faster and reach more citizens than ever before.

-Designed for the changing Adams County Community. Design committee took the time to foresee the district’s growth, keeping it ahead of the ever changing community.

- The total square footage includes apparatus bays, living quarters, and classroom areas.

- Large community center designed to host community events, and board meetings.

- The station will house a historical museum, celebrating both the history of North Washington Fire Rescue District and Southwest Adams County Fire Protection District, which became Adams County Fire Protection District.

- The geothermal system utilizes the natural ground temperature to transfer heat during both heating and cooling seasons.

- The station was also designed with the health of the firefighters who serve the community of Adams County in mind. The new station has designated areas for the firefighters to go into after a call. These are called “zones.” The hot, warm, and cold zones prevent cancer causing contaminants to enter into the fire station.

An Open House for community leaders will be held on September 12th with media members invited. A time for an open house for the public will be announced at a later date.
